What is Access Video?

Access Video provides documentaries, educational films, and instructional videos from PBS, BBC, A&E, the History Channel and many more. Life-skills content, vocational and educational multimedia can be accessed with the click of a mouse using your Randolph County Public Library card.

Browse their online collections of topics ranging from Anthropology and Health & Wellness to Parenting and Money Management. It offers:

- Movies & TV Shows - Stream documentaries, independent films and network and cable content from channels including PBS, BBC, History Channel and A&E
- Educational Videos - With content ranging from archival films and newsreels to video on science, engineering and technology.
- How-to & DIY (e.g. Want to find out about green home renovations, woodworking, painting, cooking). Learn from a group of experts from all over the world

How do I access all this great information?

You will need a library card (free!) in order to access. Go to www.randquest.org and select our Visual Arts & Video tab on the left side of the page to open a drop-down menu showing a link to Access Video on Demand. You can also click on the Streaming Video box down the center of the page.

The screenshot displays the homepage of the Randolph County Public Library website. On the left is a vertical menu titled "Resources by Category" with numerous options. The "Visual Arts & Video" option is highlighted in blue, and a red box is drawn around the "» Access Video on Demand" link. To the right of the menu are several resource sections: "Digital Resources" featuring logos for digital media; "NC LIVE Resources" with search buttons; "Featured Resources" listing various topics; "Kids" with links to Tumble Book Library, NCKIDS Digital Library, Learn from Home!, and Just for Kids; "Jobs & Careers" with links to Ferguson's Career, Cypress Resumes, and LearningExpress; and "Popular Links" listing various external websites like Google, Yahoo!, and Amazon.

This section provides a closer look at two specific resource boxes. On the left is the "Film & Video" section, which features a "Streaming Video!" banner and lists "Documentaries, PBS Series, Instructional Videos and more!". On the right is the "Just for Kids" section, which includes the "ACCESS VIDEO" banner and lists "Sesame Street, Dr. Seuss, Franklin, and more favorites!". Below these are two more category links: "Books & Film" (with a sub-link for "Library Books & Reading") and "North Carolina" (with a sub-link for "General Assembly").

Next you must enter your library card number, *PIN and select “Login”. You will be directed to Access Video.

Homepage

The screenshot shows the homepage of the Randolph County Public Library's Access Video service. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the "Infobase" logo, a search bar containing "46,681 titles", and links for "Advanced Search", "Browse Standards", and "Your Profile". Below the navigation bar is a large banner for "AND SHE COULD BE NEXT" featuring a stylized portrait of a woman and the PBS logo. Underneath the banner are two rows of video thumbnails. The first row is titled "Women's History Month" and includes thumbnails for "Perfect 36: When Women Won...", "And She Could Be Next", "Women's Liberation in the 20th...", "TEDTalks: Cecile Richards—T...", "Her Story: The Female Revolut...", and "Melinda Gates On Her Foundat...". The second row is titled "Recently Added" and includes thumbnails for "Recently Added" (a blue banner), "Recently Added", "Recently Added", "Recently Added", "Recently Added", and "Recently Added".

The homepage is divided into subject categories or collections. Click on the name of the collection to see all titles.

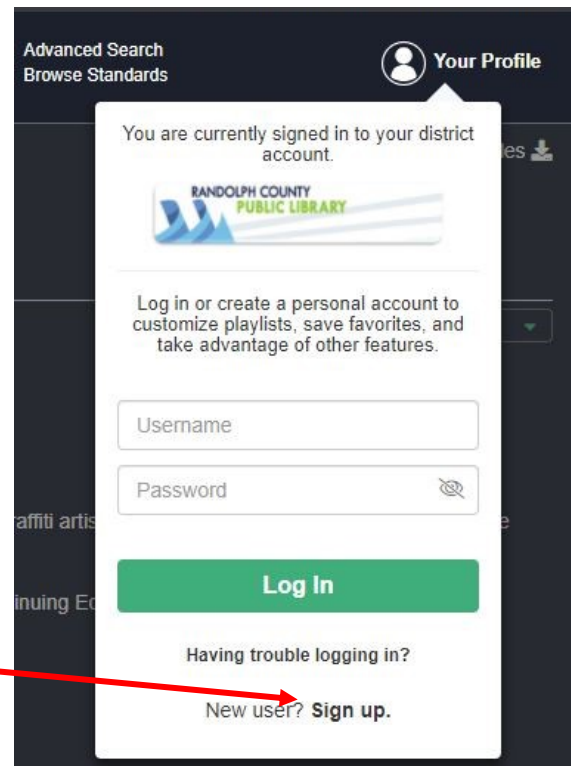

The top of the page shows the search bar, advanced searching options and your profile.

Creating an Account

On the far-right side of the home page you can create a free profile. Creating a profile saves your search history as well as videos you have watched or are still watching. It also helps recommend videos based on your interests.

You can create folders to store videos or mark them as Favorites.

Click Sign Up to continue.

A screenshot of the Infobase 'Create New Account' page. The header includes the Infobase logo, a menu icon, and a search bar with '46,681 titles'. The main heading is 'Create New Account' with a sub-heading 'Create your Infobase Account'. The form has three input fields: 'Full Name (required)', 'Student' (a dropdown menu), and 'Password (required)'. Below the password field, the word 'Weak' is displayed.

The next page requires you to create a unique username and password. You can also list your occupation (e.g. student).

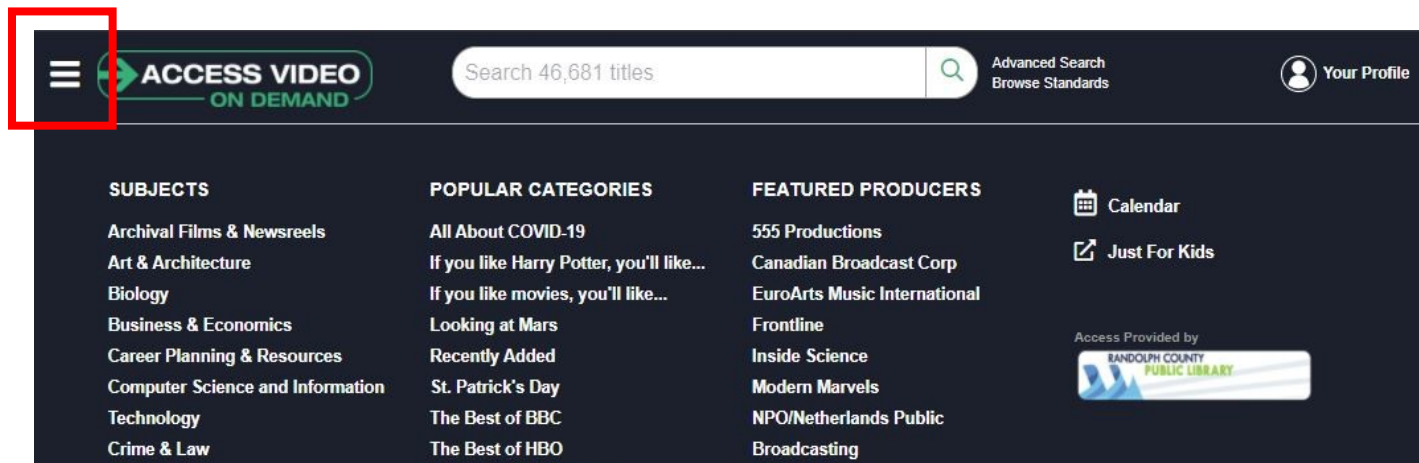

Click “create an account” box on the bottom-right of the page once completed.

Once created, you can click on My Content to see all saved videos. You can also select “classes” to put saved videos. This is also where you can log out if you are using a public computer.

Searching

Use the search bar at the top of the page for basic searches. Click on the three horizontal lines stacked on top of one another (called a hamburger button) to open a drop-down menu of subjects and categories if you want to browse a particular topic.

Let's try an example. Search "Dwayne Johnson" and see what results appear.

10 results appear, with the most relevant shown first. The first result "Rock and a Hard Place" contains our search words "Dwayne Johnson".

DESCRIPTION

An unprecedented and enlightening look inside a youth-prison boot camp, Rock and a Hard Place focuses on the lives of a diverse group of incarcerated young people in Florida, each of whom are granted a second chance: the opportunity to trade an extensive prison sentence for a fresh start by completing the famed Miami-Dade County Corrections & Rehabilitation Department Boot Camp Program. This one-of-a-kind, 16-week program, which resembles military training and includes several challenging phases, reports a recidivism rate of less than 15%, while the national rate of prison recidivism is approximately 70%. Featuring appearances by Dwayne Johnson at the facility as a new "platoon" arrives and at their graduation reception at the end of the camp, the film chronicles a harsh, uncompromising process in which drill sergeants push inmates to their limits, encouraging them to learn from past mistakes and become constructive members of society – who are substantially less likely to return to prison.

Advanced Search

When you need to delve deeper into a particular subject matter, advanced searching is best. Click on advanced search at the top of the screen to continue.

Click on the advanced search link next to the basic search box to focus your search

You can also add rows to further narrow down your search. This is useful when looking up certain subjects and wanting to narrow it down a little.

A screenshot of the "Advanced Search" form. It has a dark blue background. At the top is a section titled "Advanced Search". Below this is a text input field labeled "Enter Search Term". Underneath are two more text input fields. To the left of these fields is a dropdown menu with options: "AND", "OR", and "NOT". Below the dropdown is a green "Reset" button. At the bottom of the form is a section titled "Search Options" with a dropdown menu labeled "Select a Type".

Browse Standards

This is useful for students searching within North Carolina's K-12 standards, curriculum, and instruction.

Standards are selected by grade and subject type.
